GuamPedia: Mangilao

Mangilao: The village of Mangilao, located in central Guam, derives its name from the word iao which means to look for something. Being high on a cliff overlooking the ocean, it is a good place to look out to sea. While the village of Mangilao is fairly new, the area an ancient site of Hagatna that dates back more than one thousand years. There are several schools and government offices in this central village, including the Guam Community College and the University of Guam. Mangilao has a night market next to the Catholic Santa Teresa Church on Thursdays.
